Description

In real estate, there are properties designed to meet a need. And then there are homes that embody an entire way of living.

This residence unquestionably belongs to the latter.

Located on Avenida Salvador Dalí, one of the most balanced and sought-after residential areas in Torremolinos, this property does not aim to impress through excess, but through something far more refined and difficult to achieve: an immediate sense of wellbeing.

Some homes stand out during a viewing. This one stays with you long after you leave.

From the very first moment, the property conveys a rare harmony between spaciousness, natural light, privacy and connection with the outdoors. Its 250 sqm have been thoughtfully designed around the way people truly live, where every space has intention, continuity and purpose. Nothing feels unnecessary or purely decorative. Everything invites you to stay.

The experience begins with its terraces – genuine focal points of the home and undoubtedly among its most distinctive features.

The main west-facing terrace, fully adapted for year-round enjoyment, redefines the traditional concept of outdoor living. At certain moments of the day, the natural light transforms this space into an intimate and elegant setting, perfect for long conversations, moments of calm or simply the quiet pleasure of returning home and feeling the pace of life slow down.

Description

In contrast, the east-facing terrace offers a more Mediterranean atmosphere: bright mornings, relaxed breakfasts and a seamless connection with the outdoors that turns everyday routines into something far more enjoyable.

And perhaps that is where the true value of this property lies.

It is not only about the four bedrooms, the three bathrooms, the two private parking spaces or the impeccable condition of a residence built in 2021. Nor is it solely about the swimming pool, landscaped gardens or the quality of the communal areas.

What truly makes this home exceptional is the way it feels to live in it.

The property achieves something remarkably rare in today's market: balance. Balance between design and warmth. Between spaciousness and functionality. Between privacy and connectivity. Between city living and tranquillity.

Its location further enhances this quiet sense of privilege. Just a short walk from the beach and perfectly connected to Málaga city, the international airport and the Costa del Sol via direct rail links, it offers a lifestyle that is both dynamic and effortlessly convenient. Everything is close at hand, yet the home itself remains peacefully removed from the noise.

Shopping centres, restaurants, leisure facilities, parks and essential services are all nearby, although the overriding feeling upon returning home is precisely the opposite: disconnection from the outside world.

At a time when much of the property market mistakes luxury for excess, this residence represents a far more contemporary and sophisticated vision of wellbeing: space, serenity, light and quality of life.

Because some properties are bought.

And others are chosen.
