Description

Located in Guadalmina Baja, this villa has been designed to offer a lifestyle where architecture, comfort and outdoor living come together effortlessly.

The property stands out for the generous proportions of its spaces and for the carefully selected materials and features designed to enhance everyday living. The interiors combine elegant Dekton surfaces throughout the main living areas with oak-finish flooring in the bedrooms and dressing rooms, while extensive glazing and direct connections to the terraces and porches allow the interiors to flow naturally towards the outdoors.

Outside, the private landscaped gardens surround an independent infinity-style swimming pool with a saltwater maintenance system, creating an especially inviting setting for enjoying the Mediterranean climate. The terraces and rooftop solarium further extend the living space, offering different areas to relax and enjoy the property throughout the day and into the evening.

Comfort and technology are equally central to the design. The villa features underfloor water heating across the ground and upper floors, a Daikin VRV climate-control system with independent thermostats for each room, and a Zennio home automation system operated through touchscreens. A private lift connects the basement, main living areas and rooftop, adding an exceptional level of convenience to the residence.

The bathrooms continue the same contemporary design language, featuring large-format Dekton finishes, overhead showers and integrated elements that create a clean and sophisticated aesthetic. The fully fitted kitchen has been designed to connect naturally with the main living areas.

A villa conceived for those looking for more than simply a property: generous spaces, advanced technology, carefully selected materials and a seamless connection with the outdoors, all within one of Marbella's established residential areas.

A property that deserves to be discovered in person.
