357 m²

Description

GILMAR is offering for sale this urban plot of 357 m², located in a well-established area of Vecindario and with exciting potential for developing a residential project.

Urban planning regulations allow for the construction of up to two floors above ground and one floor below ground, offering various possibilities for utilization and design.

One of the most attractive options would be the development of up to 4 terraced homes, creating a modern and functional residential project with multiple independent units and diverse commercialization opportunities.

Due to its characteristics and location, the plot could be particularly appealing both to developers seeking to build homes for subsequent sale and to investors interested in creating a residential asset with multiple units.

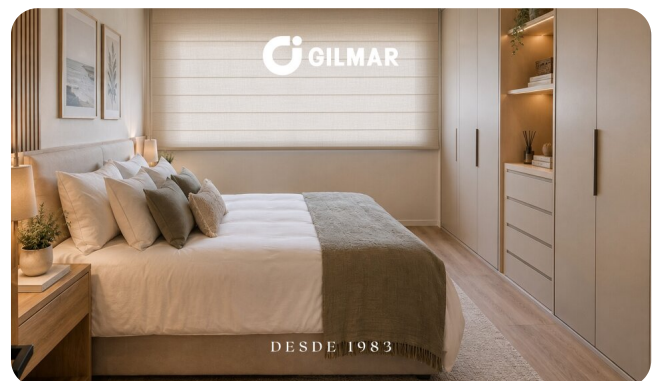

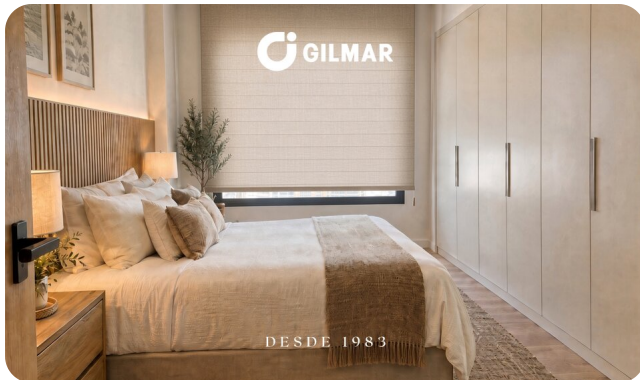

This is a prime opportunity to acquire urban land with residential development potential in Vecindario, within a consolidated area featuring all the amenities and services of the surrounding environment.
